

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. GENERAL PREFACE.

This Volume contains two Calendars of Wills relating to the Counties of Lancaster and Chester and a complete Hearth Tax for the City of Chester.

These two Calendars, it is believed, complete the series of Indexes relating to Wills, Inventories and Administrations of the goods of persons in the two Counties prior to 1800, the records of which still exist. It is now nearly thirty years since the printing of this series was begun, and it is with some satisfaction that the Council regard its completion.

The Council desire to place on record their indebtedness to a member, Mr. F. C. Beazley, for generously presenting a transcript of the Hearth Tax for the City of Chester for 1664-5 to the Society. Mr. Beazley also has edited this portion of the Volume.

PREFACE.

When Volume XLV of this Society's Transactions was issued, bringing the Indexes to the Wills proved at the Probate Registry at Chester down to the year 1800 it was believed that the work was complete so far as the regulations of the Probate Division of His Majesty's High Court permitted. Since then, however, the officials at Chester have discovered a number of bundles of Wills and Inventories which appear to have escaped the compilers of the earlier Indexes.

On being examined these proved to be a portion of the missing Infra Wills for the period prior to 1665. That they are only a portion of these is shown by the fact that for certain years, e.g., 1604, 1610, 1637, there are a very large number of Wills, while for other years no Wills occur at all. The Wills also appear to be only a portion of those proved in the Rural Deans' Court even in these years, certain Deaneries being largely in evidence, while others are entirely absent. We are fortunate indeed in having these 2,000 additional Wills, but regrets naturally arise when it is realized that they probably are only a small portion of the Infra Wills for this period which once existed.

As soon as they were discovered Mr. Henry A. Jenner, the District Registrar, interested himself in the matter and personally assumed the responsibility of having a complete Index prepared. Members of this Society and all interested in the study of local history in Lancashire and Cheshire owe Mr. Jenner a debt of gratitude for his efforts in this direction. The Index was compiled by Mr. William Wray, and Mr. Frederick Wallworth, at this time Record Keeper for the District Registry. It is a model of careful and exact work, and it should be recorded that, in addition to Indexing the Wills, each document has been placed in a fresh wrapper in such a manner as to protect it from damage and assist in preserving it for many years to come.

In conclusion, the Editor wishes to express his indebtedness to Mr. Jenner for the facilities he has afforded at all times, and to Messrs. Wray and Wallworth for their ready help and unfailing courtesy.

Hearth Tax Returns

FOR THE

City of Chester

1664-5.

PRESERVED IN THE

PUBLIC RECORD OFFICE,

LONDON.

TRANSCRIBED AND EDITED BY

F. C. BEAZLEY.

PRINTED FOR

THE RECORD SOCIETY.

1906,

INTRODUCTION.

The Hearth Tax Returns, now preserved at the Public Office, in Chancery Lane, London, fill a gap between the Subsidy Rolls of the later middle ages and the more accurate parish registers to be found, as a rule, in the eighteenth century; and they also form a useful adjunct to those parish registers for the period over which the hearth taxes extend.

These returns, it is true, only refer to a comparatively short period, but owing to the wide scope of the tax we get a remarkably full return of the householders during the reigns of Charles II and James II. The lists here printed are those taken in the seventeenth year of the former reign, for the year 1664-5 (Lay Subsidy, $\frac{6}{148}$).

As will be seen from the extracts from the Statute Book which follow, this tax practically touched everyone who possessed a house, and so we get a complete return of the inhabited houses, and the names of their occupants. Some light is also thrown on the social condition of the people as a whole by the number of chimneys returned for each district, and the whole may be taken as constituting the earliest known Directory in existence.

To the genealogist these returns are of value as indicating the locale or locales of a surname, as well as the social position of the individual, the rough and ready reckoning being three or more hearths for a person in the position of a gentleman, two for a yeoman and one for the lesser folk, though, of course, then as now, the legitimate bearer of an ancient coat of arms might fall upon evil days, and even have to be excused payment of such taxes and assessments as were due by him.

In this connection we have likewise to bear in mind that the lesser gentry and the yeomen of the day lived in houses many of which would scarcely commend themselves to a modern merchant or shopkeeper either upon the score of spaciousness or comfort,

In 1664-5, a journey to London was a serious matter, and the returns for Chester show that the more important County gentry accordingly had their town houses in that city, some of them still stand, a carved mantel or coat of arms bearing silent witness to their past glories.

It would be an interesting study to deal with the statistical aspect of the question, but space does not allow. It may be pointed out, however, that a careful analysis of these tax returns would be of the greatest possible interest, and would give us a very accurate idea of the population for the various years in which they were made. The complete character of the return will be understood when it is stated that at the end of each book a list is given of those who are too poor to pay the tax ; so that we may take it the results represent practically the names of the heads of every family that possessed a separate dwelling.

To turn to the Statute Book, we find that by the Act which gave Hearth Taxes to the King, it was provided that from the 25th March, in the year 1662, every dwelling-house and all lodgings and chambers in the Inns of Court, Inns of Chancery, Colleges, and other societies within the kingdom of England, dominion of Wales, and town of Berwick-on-Tweed, should be charged with the annual payment to the King, for every fire-hearth and stove, the sum of 2s. a year, to be paid at Michaelmas and Lady-day in equal portions, the first payment to be made on the feast day of St. Michael the Archangel, 1662. In order that a correct return might be made, it was provided that every keeper of such house, within six days after notice having been given to him by the constables, head-boroughs tything men, should deliver to them a true and just account in writing, of all hearths and stoves in their respective houses. The first return was to be made by the 6th June. In case of any housekeeper refusing to supply this information, power was given to the overseers to enter the house and make a personal inspection themselves. It was then necessary for the constables to deliver a copy of these lists at the next quarter sessions thereafter, and the Justices of the Peace were required to enrol these accounts and transmit a signed copy, within one month, to His Majesty's Court of Exchequer, under a penalty of £200. As to the financial aspect of the scheme, the constables were authorised to collect the money within twenty days after the periods named, that is Michaelmas and Lady-day, and pay it to the High Constables of the several hundreds, and for this duty they were allowed to deduct 2d. in the pound for their expenses. The High Constables then handed the sums to the Sheriffs, deducting 1d. in the pound: this had to be done within ten days. And finally, within a month after that, the Sheriffs had to pay the total sum into the Exchequer, deducting 4d. in the pound.

The only people who were exempt from this wide-reaching tax are referred to in articles 16 and 17 of the Act, by which it is provided:—"That any person who, by reason of his "poverty or the smallness of his estate, is exempted from the "usual taxes, payments, and contributions towards the Church "and poor, shall not be charged or chargeable with any of the "duties by this Act imposed." And further:—"That if the "Churchwardens and Overseers of the poor of the parish, "together with the Minister of the same, shall in writing "certify their belief that the house wherein any person doth "inhabit is not of greater value than 20s. per annum, and that "neither the person so inhabiting nor any other using the same "messuage, hath, useth, or keepeth any lands or tenements of "their own or others of the yearly value of 20s. per annum, or "owneth any lands, tenements, goods or chattels of the value "of £10 in their own possession or in the possession of any "in trust for them, such person shall be exempted from pay- "ment of the tax."

There is a further exemption allowed in the case of those owning blowing houses and stamp furnaces or kilns, or any private oven, also for any hearth or stove within the site of any hospital or almshouse for the relief of poor people, whose net amount of revenue doth not exceed in true value the sum of £100 by the year.

An important point in the working of the Act lies in the fact that it was the occupier and not the landlord who was charged with these taxes.

This Act was amended in the following year, but there are no important additions, the emendations being merely in the direction of a more correct return, and granting wider powers to the constables in the discharge of their duty.

In 1664 a further addition was made, which gave the King the power to appoint special officers to collect the revenue and to view and number the hearths returned, while all the privileges of constables, such as power to enter houses, was granted to them.

Another provision in this amended Act is interesting, as showing the existence of an effort on the part of some of the taxpayers to evade the law by parcelling out their houses amongst several holders. It was enacted that anyone doing this, and dividing their houses into several dwellings, or letting out the same to such persons who, by reason of their poverty, may pretend to be exempted from payment of the said duty, should pay the tax as amply as formerly; and further, the exemption clause was finally restricted to such houses as had not more than two chimneys.

No more statutes relating to this Act appear on the books until the year 1688, when the Act was abolished for the following reasons:—

The preamble states that:—“Whereas His Majesty having “been informed that the revenue of Hearth money was grievous
“to the people, was pleased, by the gracious message sent to
“the Commons assembled in Parliament, to signify his pleasure
“to agree to the regulation of it or to the taking it wholly “away, as should be thought most convenient by the said
“Commons. And whereas, upon mature deliberation, the said
“Commons do find that the said revenue cannot be so “regulated but that it will occasion many difficulties and “questions, and that it is in itself not only a great oppression
“to the poorer sort but a badge of slavery upon the whole
“people, exposing every man’s house to be entered into and “searched at pleasure by persons unknown to him, we your

"Majesty's most faithful and loyal subjects the Commons,
"being filled with a most humble and grateful sense of your
"Majesty's unparalleled grace and favour to your people not "only by restoring their rights and liberties which have been
"invaded contrary to law, but in desiring to make them happy
"and at ease by taking away such burdens as by law were
"fixed upon them, by which your Majesty will erect a lasting
"monument to your goodness in every house in the kingdom,
"do most humbly beseech your Majesty that the said revenue
"of hearth money shall be wholly taken away and abolished."

This Introduction has been mainly taken from an article upon
"Lancashire Hearth Taxes," by Wm. Fergusson Irvine,
F.S.A., contributed to the Transactions of the Historic Society of Lancashire and Cheshire (Vol. LII, N.S., xvi).
