[Egyptian Alphabet fifth degree]

1 This is called Grammar & A[l]phabet of the Egyptian Language Za Ki=oan-hiash, or Chal sidon hiash. This character is in the fifth degree, independent and arbitrary. It may be preead [preceded] in the fifth degree while it stands independent and arbitrary: That is, without a straight mark inserted above or below it. By inserting a straight mark over it thus, (2) it increases its signification five degrees: by inserting two straight lines, thus: (3) its signification is increased five times more. By inserting three straight lines thus (4) its signification is again increased five times more than the last. By counting the numbers of straight lines or considering them as qualifying adjectives we have the degrees of comparison There are five connecting parts of speech in the above character, called Zaki on hish These five connecting parts of speech, for verbs, participles - prepositions, conjunctions, and adverbs. In Translating this character, the subject must be continued until there are as many of these connecting parts of speech used as there are connections or connecting points found in the character. But whenever the character is found with one horizontal line, as at (2) the subject must be continued until five times the number of connecting parts of speech are used; or, the full sense of the writer is not conveyed. When two horizontal lines occur, the number of connecting parts of speech are continued five times further - or five degrees. And when three horizontal lines are found, the number of connections are to be increased five times further. The character alone has 5 parts of speech: increase by one straight line thus 5×5 is 25 [p. 1] by 2 horizontal lines thus $25 \times 5 = 125$; and by 3 horizontal lines thus: $125 \times 5 = 625$

5 When this character has a horizontal line under it it reduces it into the fourth degree, consequently it has but four connecting parts of speech. When it has two horizontal lines, it is reduced into the third degree and has but three connecting parts of speech, and when it has three horizontal lines, it is reduced into the second degree and has but two connective parts of speech.

He hath set a cloud round about in the heavens, and the light of the grand governing of 15 fixed stars centre there; and from there its is drawn, by the heavenly bodies according to their portions; according to the decrees that God hath set, as the bounds of the ocean, that it should not pass over as a flood, so God has set the bounds of light lest it pass over and consume the planets.

Kli flosisis signifies Kolob in its motion, which is swifter than the rest of the twelve fixed stars; going before, being first in motion, being delegated to have power over others to regulate others in their time, for example, one cubit of times signifies three days Therefore that which is appointed to run three days, runs one cubit according to the measure of time in cubits a cubit of motion is increased or lessened according to the sign of the degrees Veh Kli flos-isis it signifies less power than the fo[u]rth fixt [fixed?] governing star, but greater power than the sixth governing fixt [fixed?] star, in consequ[e]nce of its slowness of motion [p. 25]
